Orchard and Nursery. Planting .- Should the ground remain open this month many fruit trees can be set and at a less cost than when the work is done in the spring. Now labor is plenty, and many a man at this season will accept a job at smaller wagea than would be demanded in the spring. Do not, however, set trees in a wet or partly frozen soil; they will be likely to perish. Better occupy the time in cutting drains and preparing the soil properly. Trees not set out this fall must be heeled-in on a dry sandy soil where there is no danger of water settling during the winter.

Fruit. - Any remaining ungathered where the temperature is as low as possible without danger of frost. Apples gathered late, stored in barrels and placed in a low temperature, will keep a long time.

Cider,-Continue to make cider from the late varieties of apples, using only those which are free from rot. Cider made at this season, strained through sand to remove all pomace and impurities, may be barreled at once, and little or no fermentation will take place if kept cool. This makes a very fine quality of eider for use during the winter, as it remains sweet a long time. The barrel should be bunged up as soon as the eider is put into it.

Vinegar.-All cider from inferior fruit should be made into vinegar.

Stocks. - Take up stocks for root grafting, assort, tie in bundles of convenient size, and bury where they can be got readily during the winter. If packed in damp sawdust and put in a cool cellar they will keep equally well.

Cions.-Cut at any time when the tree is not frozen. Store in sawdust. vails during much of that season of the See that they do not dry out during the year, carried the stench which the burn-

Recipe for Curing Ment.

The editor of the Germantown Telegraph gives the following as his recipe for curing meat: To one gallon of water take 11 lbs. of salt, 1 lb. of sugar, 1 oz. of saltpetre, 4 oz. potash. In this ratio the pickle can be increased to any quantity desired. Let these be boiled together until all the dirt from the sugar rises to the top and is skimmed off. Then throw into a tub to cool, and when cool pour it over your beef or pork, to remain the usual time-say four or five weeks. The meat must be well covered with pickle, and should not be put down for at least two days after killing, during which time it should be slightly sprinkled with powdered saltpetre, which removes all the surface blood, &c., leaving the meat fresh and clean. Some omit boiling the pickle, and find it to answer well, though the operation of boiling purifies the pickle by throwing off the dirt always to be found in salt and sugar.
